

Terms of Reference:

- * The UK-wide application of the offence since its introduction in the Terrorism Act 2006, and any changing trends in the application of the offence over time, and the type of activity it has been applied to.
- * The evidential context and thresholds to prosecutions under the offence – including whether there is any evidence to suggest arrests for section 1 offences do not result in prosecution and if there are any themes as to why.
- * How the offence has been used to address encouragement in an online context – and how it can and should operate in the online environment.
- * If there is a need for any changes to the legislation to ensure the offence is as useful as possible in the current threat context.